Say the Resolutions.

The City Federation of Women's Clubs, which numbers more than ninety organizations, with a membership of 14,000 women, unanimously endorsed the proposed $8,500,000 bond issue at a meeting called yesterday afternoon by the City Federation president, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr.

Subsequently the announcement was made that Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin has been appointed and has consented to accept the chairmanship of the woman's side of the campaign for the successful passage of the bond issue.

A large number of Atlanta's most representative women were present at the meeting, when Mrs. William Percy and Mrs. John K. Outley, of the resolutions committee, proposed the resolution unanimously passed as follows:

Whereas, Atlanta has outgrown its present public facilities; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Atlanta City Federation of Women's Clubs, 14,000 strong, is firmly convinced of the necessity and wisdom of the $8,500,000 bond issue to be voted on March 8, in order to provide Atlanta with proper schools, sewerage, water and electric facilities, adequate to its population.

Resolved further, That the Atlanta City Federation of Women's Clubs pledge our support and co-operation toward securing the passage of the bond issue provided that the expenditure of same shall be placed in the hands of a competent commission, the personnel of which shall be composed of men and women taxpayers of Atlanta.

No harmonious was the spirit of the meeting in favor of the bond issue that there was no discussion, no questions were asked and it remains now for the women of the City Federation to register and to vote, to assure the success of the woman's side under the directorship of Mrs. Lumpkin, for the City Federation represents one of the largest organized bodies in the south, representing every interest related to women and their activities.

"Within a few days announcement will be sent through the heads of the 90 organizations to the membership of that many organizations, giving them full information on the subject, and urging their immediate registration, necessary for their voting," announced Mrs. Thornton.

Liquidation Work On War Supplies Upheld by Parker

New York Lawyer Declares
Policy Adopted Undoubtedly Wise.

Washington, February 4.—Staunch defense of the American liquidation commission in disposing of millions of dollars of war supplies to France and other European governments, was made today by Edwin B. Parker, New York lawyer, former chairman of the board, in testifying before the house committee investigating the conduct of the war.

Mr. Parker declared the policy adopted in disposing of the great bulk of supplies in Europe was unquestionably wise and cited figures to prove that if the same materials were on hand today would not bring the prices, either in Europe or the United States, that the government obtained when the bulk sales were made in 1918.

His examination was conducted principally by Representative Flood, of Virginia, democratic member of the committee, with occasional questioning by Chairman Johnson, of South Dakota, and Representative Bland, of Indiana, the republican members.

Pershing May Testify.
A discussion arose among the committee members on the question of calling other witnesses. Representative Flood suggested that General Pershing be summoned to answer criticisms. It was finally agreed that Mr. Flood should request the general to testify Monday, if he desired.

The committee also agreed to end the investigation next Wednesday. Mr. Parker told the committee that his commission disposed of stores netting the government $822,923,225 as compared with a cost value of $1,775,000,000. France bought stores to the amount of $52,000,000, he said, and agreed in the contract to relieve the United States of all claims of damage, including those of 100,000 property owners, against the American army. He explained that the sale also had the advantage of relieving the United States of about $150,000,000 customs duties which would have had to be paid had the materials been sold to other European governments.

"Got Full Value."
"All things considered," Mr. Parker declared, "we got full value of the goods sold to France."

Asked if the commission delayed the sales in order that profiteers could take advantage of them, Mr. Parker said such statements were "entirely foreign to the policy of the commission."

In charge of the American relief work, bought a large quantity of the surplus of the last theory. But why the crew should abandon the ship at sea is the puzzling thing who were inclined to this view. Had mutiny occurred, it is contended the crew would not have left the vessel, but would have sailed her to some point where the mutineers could have made a safe landing and a getaway.

Another Mystery Of Ocean Wastes; Ship Deserted

Norfolk, Va., February 4.—Speculation as to the cause of the plight of the five masted schooner Carroll Perring, ashore on Diamond Shoals, today put forward the theory of mutiny. No trace of the crew has been found. The ship was left presumably at sea with all sails set to drift or sail aimlessly. When the abandonment occurred, and why a ship apparently in perfect condition should be so left, is mysterious marine circles here.

That there had been trouble among the crew, a fight perhaps, and mutiny in the last theory. But why the crew should abandon the ship at sea is the puzzling thing who were inclined to this view. Had mutiny occurred, it is contended the crew would not have left the vessel, but would have sailed her to some point where the mutineers could have made a safe landing and a getaway.

ENGINEERS CAST VOTE IN APPROVAL OF BIG BOND ISSUE

Detailed Explanation of

ATLANTA EMPLOYERS ALSO INDORSE ISSUE

Association Goes on Record as Believing in Bonds, Rather Than in Extra Levy of Taxes.

Unanimous approval of the proposed $8,500,000 bond issue was voted by the local chapter of the American Association of Engineers at the chamber of commerce last night, following a detailed explanation of the purposes of the issue by Mayor James L. Key. Announcement was also made Friday that the Employers' association had gone on record in support of the movement.

The resolutions of approval, as passed by the engineers, included a condition that in the expenditure of the money obtained from bonds those in charge should be governed by the best interests of the city rather than by any definite locations. The motion was presented by William A. Hansell.

Mayor Key reiterated his determination to appoint a bond commission to direct the expenditure of the money, consisting of men who are "honest and capable, broad in vision, willing to work at a personal sacrifice for the good of the city and who command public confidence." He indicated that Mr. Samuel Lumpkin and Lee Ashcraft, president of the chamber of commerce, would be made members if it was in his power; and that no real estate men would be included on it. "Probably also no engineers or architects," he added.

Approved by Architects.
It became known during the discussion that the architects of the city had voted approval of the bond issue several weeks ago, but had not announced their action, for fear of being thought party to the demand for a bond issue. The bonds must be voted and some sold before this tax is taken off, and even then, all that tax cannot be removed.

COMPANY REFUSES TO REPAIR PAVING

Not Responsible for Condition of DeKalb Avenue, Says Arkwright. Has Clash With Key.

Flatly denying that the construction of the street car tracks in DeKalb avenue is in any sense responsible for disintegration of the newly-laid DeKalb avenue pavement, as charged by Mayor Key, President Preston S. Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Power company, appeared before the street committee of council Friday afternoon and declared that the company will under no circumstances repair the breaks that have occurred in the pavement.

Early this week Mayor Key made public a statement ascribing the destruction on DeKalb avenue to failure of the company to place its tracks on a concrete base, which he said is required by city ordinance, where pavement of the character laid on DeKalb avenue is built, and he called on the street committee to investigate and fix responsibility for the condition of the thoroughfare.

Charge Made by Mayor.
He stated that upon inquiry and inspection he found that in several places the pavement had been patched during the time in which it was being laid, and that it was raveling.

Discarded Hope Chest Becomes Casket of Bride

Dying Mother Solves Mysterious Death of Youthful Maude Tabor Virgo.

Lawton, Mich., February 4.—Maude Tabor Virgo, whose death five years ago resulted in a manslaughter charge against her 32-year-old mother, died from an anesthetic, self-administered to relieve pain incident to child birth, Mrs. Sarah Tabor, the mother, said in a statement from her sickbed here today. The aged woman, whose first trial nearly a year ago, resulted in a disagreement, is believed to be dying, following injuries in a fall three weeks ago.

Mrs. Tabor decried her daughter had a premonition of death and pleaded with her not to permit her body to be taken to a cemetery. She added that she placed the body in Maude's hope chest and lowered it into the basement of the Tabor home held around door posts. The body was found long after in the chest buried under a pile of shingles.

Pleads With Mother.
"The day before she died," said Mrs. Tabor, "she cried over and over again: 'You won't ever let

DECEPTION ADMITTED TO HEALTH PHYSICIAN

Revelation Brought About
as Result of Publicity
Following "Birth" of Triplets to Woman of 52.

Stunned by the story told by his wife yesterday that eleven children that he had fondly believed for years were his own were, in fact, nameless waifs taken from maternity hospitals, E. A. South, of 23 Weyman avenue, groped blindly for a new perspective on life, a new adjustment of his family affairs.

South, whose years are approaching those of old age, remains loyal to the wife who admitted that she had deceived him through all these years. He is loath to admit that the children are not his. In face of her sought confession, in face of a convincing array of circumstantial evidence, he persists in the idea that there may be some mistake somewhere, and that he may, awake from a horrible nightmare to hear the children he has loved as his own, in whom he has taken the pride of the proud parent, once more call him "father" and know that the word isn't a hollow mockery.

South Is Retiring.
A timid, retiring little fellow is South. He is employed at the Fulton Grocery company at 129 Decatur street, and, with the revelations of his wife's deception still ringing in his ears and choking the throbbing of his heart, he was found Friday afternoon patiently waiting on customers.

CALL TO DISARM WILL BE SOUNDED TO WORLD BY U.S.

Chairman Butler Tells
House Naval Committee
Disarmament Conference
Certain.

BATTLESHIPS UPHELD BY ADMIRAL SIMS

War-Time Navy Commander
Would Continue
Work on 1916 Naval Building Program.

Washington, February 4.—Satisfied from testimony of a large number of witnesses that calling of an international conference to discuss disarmament would meet with general approval, the house naval committee today called before it ten high officers of the navy and one of the army and heard a vast amount of divergent and confusing testimonies as to whether aircraft had made capital naval vessels useless.

Before the committee settled down to listen to the officers, however, Chairman Butler announced positively that an international disarmament conference would be called by this country. He did not say when the call would go out, but it was assumed from his line of questioning that it would be shortly after President-elect Harding, with whom Mr. Butler recently conferred, takes office.

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, war-time commander of all American naval forces in European waters and present head of the naval war college, the first witness called, counseled against immediate abandonment of the capital ships. He added, however, that if aerial forces demonstrated the value he expected them to in the near future, they would soon make major surface craft useless. He opposed discontinuing work on the great 1916 naval building program and declared "nobody is going to take his hand off his gun" until conditions become settled in Europe.

Defends Battleship.
The superiority of the battleship over other the airplane or submarine was defended by Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, head of the general board and former commander of the Atlantic fleet, who declared that battleships and battle cruisers would remain the backbone of the fleet for years to come. He did not believe, he said, that anything very definite would come out of the proposed disarmament conference, but said it was a worth while effort.

Still another view was presented by Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, former member of the general board and inventor of the torpedo plane, who told the committee that aerial dreadnaughts would be the capital ships of the future.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL IS BEFORE SENATE

Senate Would Give Ten
Millions for Muscle
Shoals and Also Veteran Hospital.

Washington, February 4.—Specific house appropriations for interchange of docks and freight handling equipment at points on the Mississippi river, and in Alabama are eliminated from the sundry civil bill as reported today to the senate.

The bill as passed by the house provided for this purpose: East St. Louis, $400,000; Memphis, $60,000; New Orleans, $400,000; Cordova, Ala., $40,000; Demopolis, Ala., $25,000; in addition to $200,000 for their operation.

Retaining Provision.
The senate committee retained the provision for the appropriation of the total sum of $1,350,000, but it is left subject to distribution among various projects by the federal authorities.

The bill carries $416,921,000, an increase of $24,437,000 over the house total. Chairman Warren, of the committee, announced he would call it up tomorrow.

The principal increases are $10,000,000 for the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power project, and $15,500,000 for increased hospital facilities

Affray in Lobby Of Rochelle Bank Fatal for Fryer

John McCall Also Shot
Twice and May Not Live.

Abbeville, Ga., February 4.—(Special.)—S. S. Fryer was shot and killed by John McCall this afternoon in the lobby of the Bank of Rochelle, at Rochelle, according to news just received here.

A dispute arose between the men over the division of some insurance money they had just received in settlement of a claim of loss by fire of a cotton warehouse at Oconeeboro recently. It is stated it seems that the dispute occurred in a private office of the bank, but shifted to the lobby, where the shooting occurred, each man firing five times. Fryer died instantly and McCall was shot twice in the stomach, and is said to be in a dangerous condition.

Sheriff O. L. Smith happened to be in Rochelle at the time, and rushed off to the Fitzgerald hospital with McCall. It is not known at this writing just how serious McCall's wounds are, but it is believed that he is dangerously wounded.

Both parties are prominent citizens of this county. S. S. Fryer lived in Rochelle. He leaves a widow and three children. John A. McCall lived in the Oconeeboro district. He is a large farmer and cotton buyer, and was a director in one of the banks of Beaufort. He is a widower and has six children, his wife having died about a week ago. There were several eye-witnesses to the shooting.

NEW YORK BANKER URGES LOW PROFITS

Cautions Against Idle
Waiting and Tells Business Men to Reduce Prices.

New York, February 4.—Confidence that business will soon settle down on sound fundamentals was expressed by leading financiers and practical economists tonight at a dinner of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms.

James S. Alexander, president of the National Bank of Commerce in New York, cautioned against idle waiting for the public to resume active buying, urging business men to stimulate purchasing by reduced prices based on keener efficiency in production and the acceptance of "reasonable margins of profits."

In this connection, he said, "the growing tendency of labor to become more efficient and its willingness to accept some liquidation of inflated wages is encouraging. The readjustment is favorable to the individual worker."

"Competition for work means stimulation of efficiency and staunch individualism as opposed to radicalism. An abundance of labor permits employers to choose workmen intelligently and co-ordinate

SOUTHERN RURALIST REPLIES TO JACKSON

Defends Farm Bureau
Federation, Following
Attack on Organization
Made Before Congress.

A merry contest is developing not only in Georgia, but throughout the country as the result of a recent hearing before a congressional committee in which L. B. Jackson, director of the State Bureau of Markets, and others, vigorously attacked the American Farm Bureau Federation, charging it to be a private organization and that it is receiving the support of the department of agriculture, whose governmental agencies have been acting as its organizers.

In a statement in The Constitution on his return from Washington, Mr. Jackson, among other things, said: "The people of Georgia want to know who is behind this farm bureau. They thought at first that the U. S. department of agriculture would acknowledge parentage. But not so. United States agricultural officials will tell you very quickly that they have no control over the farm bureau."

The current issue of the Southern Ruralist, a leading southern agricultural publication, answers Mr. Jackson's question by the statement that it has warmly championed the cause of the American Farm Bureau Federation, "because we know what it stands for" and what it is capable of achieving.

The Ruralist declares that "NOT

ATLANTA PASTORS NAMED TO ATTEND ECUMENICAL MEET

Rev. Dr. James E. Dickey, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Dr. R. P. Wiggins, pastor of Park Street Methodist Episcopal church, and Mrs. Jennie Spauld, of this city, have been appointed representatives of north Georgia at the ecumenical conference of the Methodist churches of the world, to be held September 8-16 in London.

Bishop Warren A. Candler and Bishop W. N. Ainsworth will also attend. It is expected that about half of the 500 delegates in attendance will be from the United States. Rev. T. D. Ellis and Rev. Bascom Anthony, of Macon, will represent south Georgia.

The council is held every ten years, and includes representatives of all the branches of the Methodist church throughout the world. The council holds no legislative power, and confines its business to a review of the past decade, and to making plans for the anticipated growth in the coming ten years. The council of bishops appoints the delegates, naming two ministers and one lay delegate from each conference. All the bishops of the Methodist church attend the meeting.

It is probable that a tour of the war zone in France will be included in the arrangements made in connection with the conference. The delegates from this country will probably go to London as a body.

BENEATH DIGNITY TO REPEAT OFFER

Birmingham, England, February 4.—The British government formally proposed a cancellation of all inter-allied debts, but the proposals were unacceptable to the American government, said J. Austin Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech to his constituents here today.

"To make them again," Chamberlain continued, "would be, I think, beneath our dignity, and would render us liable to a misconception of our motives."

"In making," he added, "we sought no national advantage for ourselves. 'We proposed a solution in which we should have foregone claims larger than any remitted to us, and we proposed it because we believed it would be in the interests of good relations among peoples, the rehabilitation of nations, and the restoration of international trade."

"Our great international debt is due to the obligations we undertook on behalf of our allies. It was only ourselves to consider. We should have been particularly free of external debt at the present time."

Mr. Chamberlain prefaced his remarks by saying that he would have preferred at the close of the war that the whole inter-allied debt had been wiped out, so as to start with a clean slate. There was no proposal for a settlement of the international debt among the allied and associated powers, whether for a total or partial remission, which the British government would not have been prepared to be a party to, he declared.

NOT MENTIONED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, February 4.—Treasury officials refused to comment tonight on the statement of the British chancellor of the exchequer, J. Austin Chamberlain, in an address at Birmingham, England, that the United States government refused to accept British government proposals that the inter-allied debts arising from the world be canceled.

No mention has even been made in official circles here of any proposal officially tendered by Great Britain for cancellation of the inter-allied debts, but it was recalled tonight that Sir George Paish, the British expert, who visited the United States a year ago, put forward some such proposal while in this country. Sir George's mission was not regarded by the United States government as official and consequently his proposal did not receive official consideration.

Official circles, while refusing to discuss the Chamberlain proposal, said tonight that they had received no recent advice regarding the prospective trip of Lord Chamberlain, representative of the British treasury to this country. It is the

12 MONTHS SENTENCE GIVEN YOUNG SOLDIER

Judge John D. Humphries, in the criminal division of the superior court Friday morning, sentenced Charles M. Foster, a soldier stationed at Camp Jessup, to serve 12 months on the chain gang after the latter had entered a plea of guilty of the charge of stealing $300 worth of automobile accessories from a government garage at the camp. Foster said he was unable to pay a fine and was doing a court-martial sentence for the same theft. He said there were 20 months more of the military term to serve. Judge Humphries refused to entertain a plan for friends to pay a fine for Foster.

Reparations Plan Financial Bondage, German Declares

Berlin, February 4.—Dr. Ernest Scholz, minister of economics, summing up today what he declared would be the obvious effects of the reparations proposals formulated by the allies at the recent meeting of the supreme council in Paris, said the proposals were tantamount to the financial bondage of Germany. He asserted they would result in reduction in food rations with a resultant revival of the era of undernourishment and an inevitable recrudescence of war-time diseases and death.

After our securities were taken from us and our overseas possessions sequestered," Dr. Scholz said, "our sole means of paying for our foreign purchases were foreign monies earned without exports. During the present fiscal year we were forced to import nearly one half of our grain from overseas. If we now are called upon to pay such sums as part of the indemnity tribute we will soon be bereft of all opportunity to buy wheat and raw products abroad.

"Our inability to buy raw products will paralyze our industrial

Don't Be "Penny Wise and Pound Foolish"

It is the poorest kind of economy to buy an article just for the sake of saving a penny or so in an actual outlay of cash—the chances are that you will lose in QUALITY what you save in money—and the "saving" is oftentimes reduced to an actual loss. This is especially true as regards foodstuffs.

Quality foods are always cheap in the long-run.

Our customers are given advantage of every possible price-reduction—market conditions are changing almost over night, and it is our policy to keep just a little ahead of general conditions, yet maintain at all times a high degree of quality.

them take me away from you? I spent the greater part of the last night with Maude holding her hand and assuring her I would obey her request.

She inhaled great quantities of chloroform to relieve pain. Mrs. Tabor said, and added, "one time when I left the room for a few minutes she must have taken more of it than she realized, for I found her body rigid."

Placed in Hope Chest.

"I left the body lying on the bed for about a day. I do not remember just how long.

"The more I reflected on it, the more I became convinced I ought to bury the body in the basement. Maude always had a horror of the conventional funeral, the ostentation and all that. So I placed the body in the hope chest and lowered it into the basement myself."

Gold, though the most precious of metals in common use, is by far the most widely distributed. There is hardly any country on earth, from the equator to the poles, where it is not found. It is dry-blown out of the scorching sands of western Australia, blasted from the cliffs of frozen Spitzbergen and washed from the Arctic beach at Cape Nome.

CRAIG IS ELECTED UNIONIST LEADER

Sir Edward Carson Re-signs Reins as Leader of Irish Party.

Belfast, February 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Ulster Unionist council today elected Sir James Craig, M. P., leader of the party in the new parliament to be set up for Ulster under the Irish home rule act. Sir Edward Carson presided over the council session.

Sir Edward Carson in handing over the reins of office as leader of the unionist party said "a great chapter in history is Ulster had closed; that the great fight had gone through without a single act which would disgrace the province. Record is clear."

"We have a clear record," said Sir Edward. "Let us preserve it." There was an aged-old reproach that an Irish parliament in Dublin could not be trusted to do justice to any protestant minority. Sir Edward continued, adding "let us take care that this reproach cannot be made against your parliament. From the outset let them see that the Catholic minority will have nothing to fear from a Protestant majority."

Regarding talk of a united Ireland, Sir Edward said: "Ulster can be won by sincere professions of the same ideals of loyalty to the throne, pride in the throne and acceptance of those principles which have made the country great throughout the world, but she will never be coerced. There can be no possible commencement of an approach between the north and the south of Ireland until the south and the west abandon the horrible methods they have pursued and now are pursuing."

To Uphold Standards.

Sir James Craig, in acknowledging his election to the leadership, declared that his policy in the future would be that of the past—no surrender to the disintegrating forces in Ireland.

"I am an Orangeman to the heart and always shall be an Orangeman no matter what my position," said Sir James. "I shall uphold the same standards which have brought me to the proud position in which you have placed me today."

Sir James said there was steady uphill work in view in order to secure for "our children the heritage Sir Edward Carson has handed down."

The election of Sir James Craig as the first premier of the new Ulster parliament means the virtual retirement of Sir Edward Carson from his long standing leadership of "the loyal people of the six counties" of Ulster. Sir Edward was offered the premiership on January 25 by a deputation from Ulster, but declined the honor, saying he felt too old and lacked the strength to undertake the arduous duties involved. He agreed, however, for the present to accept the chairmanship of the Ulster party in the imperial parliament.

Speaking later in an informal way, the newly-elected leader said he anticipated the king would come to open the new parliament. He hoped also that the king would inaugurate the southern parliament

GEDDES IN CHARGE OF DEBT PARLEYS

Adjustment of British Debt to U. S. to Be Negotiated Through Ambassador.

London, February 4.—Negotiations relative to an adjustment of Great Britain's debt to the United States are in the hands of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador in Washington, and the proposed trip to America of Lord Chalmers, permanent secretary of the treasury, was merely to facilitate the conversations. This was the explanation given yesterday for the postponement of Lord Chalmers' visit to the United States during the absence of Ambassador Geddes. It was declared illogical to suppose that he was in a position to offer any proposals relative to the negotiations, since the government had deemed it desirable for him to remain here until the return of Sir Auckland to Washington.

"Under the Liberty loan engagements," the Associated Press was told, "the American treasury was empowered to float loans and to make advances to the allies. Negotiations have been going on with the United States government ever since the armistice, but have been postponed for some time because of the urgency of other matters such as reparations and domestic finances, with which the treasury has been busy. The fact that negotiations have been going on apparently was the basis of reports that Lord Chalmers would go to America and propose the conversion of the British debt to the United States into 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1938 and 1947. The delegation of Lord Chalmers to go to America, however, may be taken as an indication of the British desire to wind up affairs."

Y. W. C. A. Council.

Savannah, Ga., February 4.—(Special.)—Organization of the South Atlantic committee of the Y. W. C. A. world service council was effected at a meeting today of workers from a large surrounding territory addressed by Mrs. Bertha Woodward of New York, and by other prominent workers from that city, Philadelphia, Richmond and other places. The conference will last through tomorrow.

proportion, the special tax was needed for $50,000 for pay rolls of the school forces, last year this amount was $235,000, and this year there is a deficit of $116,900. The budget showed that $550,000 more than this deficit is needed. Of the special tax, $235,000 was levied for the pay rolls of the schools.

"If the bonds are voted, that amount and a little more will remain, for we cannot use the bond issue to pay current expenses of the schools. I want the friends of the schools to know that the money raised for the salaries of the schools will remain as they now are, bonds or no bonds."

Beautiful Buildings.

"The schools must be permanent, beautiful and an inspiration to teachers, pupils and the community. Beautiful buildings are a need, not an extravagance. We must consider a program of construction and also of education."

Mayor Key said proposals to make the high schools co-educational and to have all high schools teach the same subjects would not be a wise move.

"We must atone for the folly of the past, when we did not build big, we should have," he said, referring to the warworks and sewerage system. "The people then did not have the vision of how the city would grow, but we see clearly now. We must correct the errors of the past."

The proposed Spring street viaduct, he said, would provide egress from the terminals and would divert much freight traffic which now clogs the center of the city. The underpass on Forsyth street could then be closed, and in that way another clear thoroughfare would be provided, he explained.

Resolutions Passed.

The resolutions passed by the Employers' Association:

Whereas, our splendid city should have funds with which to secure many needed public improvements, and

Whereas, it is in our common sense to be realized by the issuance of bonds instead of the present method of raising money to meet the present needs, and

Whereas, the Hon. Mayor and City Council have passed an ordinance submitting to the voters of Atlanta a bond issue authorized to meet the present needs, and

Resolved, that a bond commission will be appointed by the Hon. Mayor and General Council to have charge of the expenditure of the money raised by this bond issue, and

Whereas, we have confidence that the Hon. Mayor and City Council will appoint on this bond commission only such citizens as are thoroughly competent by reason of their experience and business ability to administer the expenditure of so large an amount of money; be it ell, chief of training and operations of the army air service, called to the stand, told the committee that it was a simple matter for air forces to hit and destroy a battleship and stated his testimony of last week before the appropriations committee to the effect that aerial developments had made surface navies obsolete. General Mitchell cleared up one point that had been causing the committee some wonderment all day when he stated that data, supposed by navy officials to be secret, but disclosed by him before a senate committee, had been secured by army officers who attended the bombing of the old battleship Indiana at the invitation of Secretary Daniels.

Resolved, that the Employers' Association of Atlanta do hereby heartily endorse the proposed bond issue.

Mitchell on Stand.

General Mitchell was on the stand when the session concluded and will continue his testimony tomorrow.

All of the naval officers who testified stressed the necessity for the immediate construction of high-speed airplane carrying ships.

While the house committee heard this testimony the senate naval subcommittee drafted an adverse report on the resolution presented by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, providing for a six months' suspension of naval building while experts study the best types of ships.

DOCTORS' EXCHANGE
PROVES TO BE POPULAR

The Doctors' exchange, a bureau established in Atlanta with the endorsement of the Fulton County Medical society, where messages are received and delivered for physicians, is proving popular among doctors and patients alike, according to the organization committee which announced Friday that applications for membership are being steadily received.

The following physicians are already subscribers of the exchange: Drs. Frank Boland, J. C. O. Baggett, B. L. Beasley, Marshall, R. Sims, C. A. Almand, C. E. Lawrence, T. C. Harrison, W. Yankey and E. E. Horton. The organization committee is led by Dr. L. Campbell. Similar exchange is said, have been successfully operated in Los Angeles, Buffalo and Dallas.

GEDDES IN CHARGE OF DEBT PARLEYS

Adjustment of British Debt to U. S. to Be Negotiated Through Ambassador.

London, February 4.—Negotiations relative to an adjustment of Great Britain's debt to the United States are in the hands of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador in Washington, and the proposed trip to America of Lord Chalmers, permanent secretary of the treasury, was merely to facilitate the conversations. This was the explanation given yesterday for the postponement of Lord Chalmers' visit to the United States during the absence of Ambassador Geddes. It was declared illogical to suppose that he was in a position to offer any proposals relative to the negotiations, since the government had deemed it desirable for him to remain here until the return of Sir Auckland to Washington.

"Under the Liberty loan engagements," the Associated Press was told, "the American treasury was empowered to float loans and to make advances to the allies. Negotiations have been going on with the United States government ever since the armistice, but have been postponed for some time because of the urgency of other matters such as reparations and domestic finances, with which the treasury has been busy. The fact that negotiations have been going on apparently was the basis of reports that Lord Chalmers would go to America and propose the conversion of the British debt to the United States into 5 per cent bonds maturing in 1938 and 1947. The delegation of Lord Chalmers to go to America, however, may be taken as an indication of the British desire to wind up affairs."

proportion, the special tax was needed for $50,000 for pay rolls of the school forces, last year this amount was $235,000, and this year there is a deficit of $116,900. The budget showed that $550,000 more than this deficit is needed. Of the special tax, $235,000 was levied for the pay rolls of the schools.

"If the bonds are voted, that amount and a little more will remain, for we cannot use the bond issue to pay current expenses of the schools. I want the friends of the schools to know that the money raised for the salaries of the schools will remain as they now are, bonds or no bonds."

Beautiful Buildings.

"The schools must be permanent, beautiful and an inspiration to teachers, pupils and the community. Beautiful buildings are a need, not an extravagance. We must consider a program of construction and also of education."

Mayor Key said proposals to make the high schools co-educational and to have all high schools teach the same subjects would not be a wise move.

"We must atone for the folly of the past, when we did not build big, we should have," he said, referring to the warworks and sewerage system. "The people then did not have the vision of how the city would grow, but we see clearly now. We must correct the errors of the past."

The proposed Spring street viaduct, he said, would provide egress from the terminals and would divert much freight traffic which now clogs the center of the city. The underpass on Forsyth street could then be closed, and in that way another clear thoroughfare would be provided, he explained.

SUPPORT PLEDGED HUMANE SOCIETY

Prominent Men and Women Tell Why Atlanta Should Raise Fund of $10,000 for Work.

Leading men and women of Atlanta pledged their support to the Atlanta Humane society at a mass meeting held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Cable hall, and urged the city to support the campaign being waged by the society to raise $10,000 for the protection of dumb animals, helpless and unfortunate people, and prison inmates.

Subscriptions were announced, including a gift of $100 by John A. Mangum, and plans were laid for a canvass of the city.

The meeting was an enthusiastic endorsement of the Humane society, which for 48 years has been an institution in Atlanta, and a pledge on the part of leading citizens that they will aid in the effort to raise funds necessary for the continuance of the work of the society.

Woods White Speaks.
"This society," said W. Woods White, the first speaker, "has done magnificent work, not only by suggestion, but by actual service. It gives aid and protection, not only to dumb animals, but to people in misfortune—to little children, to the old and the sick, and the prison inmates."

"If it had done nothing else last year than bring about the abolition of dogging at the city workhouse, it would have justified its existence. It was in a weakened condition then because of lack of funds, but the sincerity of its purpose and the devotion of its members was enough to bring success to its efforts. This society should succeed in its campaign to raise $10,000, and it will succeed."

Julian Boehm, who followed Mr. White, stressed the importance of the work done by the society and expressed confidence that Atlanta will rally to the aid of the association which, for nearly half a century, has worked for the prevention of cruelty and the relief of suffering.

Rudland Reads Report.
Following Mr. Boehm, William J. Rudland, executive secretary of the society, read a budget showing how funds sought by the society will be spent and outlining a program to be carried out if the money asked for the society is secured.

The proposed program includes measures to fight the menace of hydrophobia by ridding the streets of Atlanta of stray dogs; the establishment of a sanitary dog pound where dogs which must be killed can be put to death painlessly; the employment of a humane officer to work under the direction of the society; efforts toward prison reform; a campaign of education among children to instill in them an abhorrence of cruelty; and other measures looking toward the prevention of cruelty and the relief of distress.

T. T. Stevens, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, paid tribute to the work done by the society and urged all who are interested in the protection of the helpless to rally to its support.

Worthy of Help.
"If the Humane society," she said, "had done nothing else except bring to light the conditions of cruelty at the Campbell orphanage, between here and Marietta, it would be worthy of the help of every individual who wants to see little children protected from harm."

Mrs. Joseph N. Moody, chairman of the welfare department of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, made an appealing talk in behalf of the society, stressing in particular the campaign for education it plans among the children of Atlanta.

Mrs. R. K. Rambo told of what the society has accomplished despite lack of funds and urged that it be given the means to enlarge its efforts, particularly in the employment of a humane officer to work directly under the society.

Mrs. J. E. Summerfield, formerly president of the Council of Jewish Women, spoke of the need of such an agency as the Humane society, then added: "I think that in its plan of work should be included the effort to free the streets of Atlanta of beggars. The people who are now begging should be trained to become self-supporting; or, if they are incapable of that, a place should be found for them in an institution. They should not be left to beg upon the streets."

Mrs. Striplin Speaks.
Mrs. R. M. Striplin, chairman of Women's Clubs, declared her belief that the women of Atlanta will come to the aid of the society, which is organized "to help those who can't help themselves."

Dr. H. G. Carnes told how the Humane society brought about the prosecution of Mrs. Naomi Campbell, in the with her husband, was manager of the orphanage between Atlanta and Marietta, where 17 little children were subject to inhuman treatment.

A delegation from DeKalb county came here, he said, "but there was no one to take action. As a member of the Atlanta Humane society I took the matter in my own hands and went to Marietta and swore service because against Mr. Campbell and her husband. They were tried and are now serving."

If you'll remember, the testimony at their trial brought out the fact that the little children for a cow; she had another one held before in the dog pound, and she made a preparation of salt and pepper that she would rub into their cuts after she had whipped them."

Sketches Society's Work.
R. E. White, president of the Atlanta Humane society, introduced the speakers and sketched the work of the society.

The following letter was read from John J. Egan:

"I consider the work of the Atlanta Humane society very important, and I am glad to know that efforts are being made to make it more effective than it has been in the past. I am particularly interested in your work for prison reform. The same time I do not underestimate the importance of the prevention of cruelty to animals. I see from the papers that you are trying to raise $10,000 to carry on the work of the society. You may enter my subscription for $100 toward this amount. I wish you and the splendid workers associated with you much success in your undertaking."

15,000 PERSONS VACCINATED HERE

In a report to the board of health Friday afternoon, Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, stated that 15,000 persons have been vaccinated since the crusade against smallpox was started by the health department three weeks ago. The work of inoculation will go on until the $3,000 special appropriation for this purpose is exhausted.

Dr. Kennedy said that the physicians and the accompanying policemen had met with exceptional cooperation except in rare instances, and he hoped to see the city rendered virtually immune from smallpox before the fund for carrying on the work of vaccination gives out.

The board granted two weeks' leave of absence to Dr. Kennedy to attend the United States government school for health officers, which will be held at Augusta, beginning February 21. The school will be under the auspices of the University of Georgia medical branch, but all expenses will be borne by the government.

A committee composed of George B. Lyle, Dr. P. L. Moon and H. B. Buckalew was appointed to investigate the existence of cess pools in the city and call council's attention to the danger arising from them.

The board authorized the sanitary department to slaughter seven worn out mules and feed them to the animals at the zoo.

Considerable protest was voiced by members of the body against the action of the finance committee and council in appropriating $30,000 for the purchase of two motor flushing machines for the sanitary department without consulting or consulting in any manner with the board.

A committee composed of George B. Lyle, Dr. P. L. Moon and G. W. Cooper, C. J. Molendin and G. B. Lyle was appointed to assist in the purchase of two new trucks for the sanitary department and to sell the old flushing machines and equipment for the department.

Rules relative to the duties of the sanitary inspectors, drafted by the committee, were discussed at the meeting, but adoption was deferred.

SENSATIONAL LIQUOR RAID IN TENNESSEE

"Flying Squadron" of Three States Destroys Still and Moonshine.

Knoxville, Tenn., February 4.—Twenty thousand gallons of beer, several nests of stills of from 75 to 200 gallons capacity, 129 fermenters, all of 150 gallons capacity and 200 gallons of whisky were destroyed in the most sensational raid in the history of prohibition in this section conducted yesterday in the Cosby district of Cocke county.

Three men were arrested and left in the Cocke county jail as a result of the raid and twenty men of the government's "flying squadron" from the states of North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee, in company with officials of Marshal Frank W. Flenniken and Prohibition Agent W. L. McDonald returned to Knoxville this morning.

The raid resulted in the total disorganization and destruction of one of the boldest gangs of prohibition outlaws in east Tennessee, western North Carolina, and southwestern Virginia, according to officials of the United States department of justice and prohibition enforcement.

All the equipment was left demolished and the moonshine was left to finish its fermentation among the mountain wilds of Cocke county.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 13.—The publication of Lady Norah Bentinck's articles on the Hohenzollern in exile has aroused a storm of indignation on the part of the ex-Kaiser and the entire Hohenzollern interest, as well as his former host, Count Bentinck, at whose castle the events described took place.

Count Bentinck hurried to The Hague to confer with the Foreign Minister and the Premier, after which conference it is understood that the government instructed The Netherlands Minister in London to deny the statements contained in the articles.

It is understood that the Dutch government is highly incensed, considering their publication a breach of etiquette and good faith, since guests at Amerongen were always requested to tell nothing of the doings at the castle.

Count Bentinck asserts that not even the servants gossiped during William's stay, in spite of tempting bribes offered by American journalists.

First installment describes the Kaiser's relief at reaching Amerongen.

"Mother" and Adopted Children

Mrs. F. E. A. South and her "triplets."

SOUTH STILL HOPES CHILDREN ARE OWN

wife's statement was "an infernal lie," induced either by a mental aberration or some other sinister influence, had been changed on more mature reflection.

"I guess some of it is so," he said, "but it's a pretty hard thing to talk about just now. You see, I never had the slightest idea that all these children that we've raised weren't ours. I didn't doubt for a second that the triplets, which my wife says she got from that home, were not born right in our house. I guess the neighbors were fooled as badly as I was—that is, if this story is all true. He persisted in maintaining the faith hope that in its final denouement the children would prove his."

"Are you going to keep the children?" he was asked.

"Must think about it," he said.

"I can't tell you that, now," he said. "I've got to do some thinking about that hard thinking, too. You see, there are nine children at our home now. Some of them are about getting grown, and they've been raised to love me like a father, and I've always loved them like I was their father, as I always believed I was. I've got to think of all those things. It's going to be hard, too."

"I've worked hard for all of them, and they've been well raised by my wife—and, well, you see it's a hard thing to decide whether we ought to keep on being mother and father to them. It's hard to believe that they aren't my flesh and blood."

The remarkable deception of Mrs. South was brought to light by investigations of the city health department following widespread publicity given the "birth of triplets" at the South home on New Year's eve, and the report that Mrs. South was then 52 years old and was the mother of two sets of twins.

No certificate of the birth of triplets had ever been returned to the state registrar of the health office. For weeks he considered it simply the oversight of the attending physician. However, during the latter part of last week, wishing to close his January figures, he sent an investigator to the South home.

The triplets were there, all right, and when asked for the name of the physician in attendance it was furnished.

The investigator departed from the home without the thought of suspicion. First grounds for doubting Mrs. South's story were furnished by the fact that no physician of the name given by her practices in Atlanta.

Records Investigated.

It was then decided to investigate the records of Atlanta maternity homes. The puzzle was solved when investigators visited St. Mary's home operated by Mrs. M. R. Mitchell at 22 Windsor street. Mrs. Mitchell promptly and frankly declared that she had given the three babies to Mrs. South; that they were not triplets but the daughters of three mothers and were born respectively December 5, December 5 and December 10; that Mrs. South had requested her to keep secret the fact that she had taken the children, declaring that she wished her husband to believe that the "triplets" were theirs; that when the board of health investigators had first visited the South home, Mrs. South had made a hurried call to the hospital and asked that Mrs. Mitchell give her a certificate of birth of triplets; that she had refused this request as her business was conducted on a strictly legitimate basis.

Confronted with this statement Mrs. South no longer attempted to hide the fact that her husband had been deceived not only in the case of the triplets, but in the cases of six children now alive and two that have passed away.

Why She Adopted Children.

Her statement carries the thought that while practicing the deception, she was actuated by the humane impulse to give the nameless offspring, a name that they could not be ashamed of and a chance to become good and useful citizens.

The primary impulse for the taking of the triplets, she declares, was furnished by St. Paul's Methodist church of which she is a member, to educate the first triplets born in the congregation for service as foreign missionaries.

Mrs. South declared she is really the mother of three children now grown to maturity and that the absence of children from the home and her desire to do something for the unfortunate little ones of the maternity homes actuated her first "adoptions."

She declined to say where she obtained the first four children she took under her roof in this strange manner.

"The first time I conceived my husband I did it with one baby. No, I won't tell you how I worked it, but it fooled him completely," she declared. "I did this because I knew he would give them the real love of a father, which I didn't know he would give if he knew the children were not ours."

"It was in 1916 that I got the first children from Mrs. Mitchell. I had my husband believe they were twins, but both of them died. Then in 1918 I got 'twins' from her again. They are," she said, pointing to two neatly dressed and apparently thriving kiddies playing on the floor as the triplets slept peacefully in a crib.

"Then when the church offered to educate the first triplets for the missionary field, I saw another splendid chance to do good. My father was a Methodist minister and I've always been interested in missionary work. I went to see Mrs. Mitchell. There were two babies just about the same age, so I took them again. I deceived my husband completely."

Mrs. South was grief-stricken over the idea that the real identity would be disclosed. Why can't I raise them as mine and give them the same chance as other children?" she asked.

Mrs. Mitchell confirmed every part of the statement. "I knew all the time that she was deceiving her husband and the public in general with the triplets story, but it was not my affair. When she first took children from this home, I investigated her character and, though I discovered that she and her husband were people of very limited means, their characters were excellent and they had treated the children with every care and attention that real parents be-

All three babies are recorded as girls and all three of the babies at Mrs. South's home are girls. The baby born on December 3 is the child of a girl who claims Red Level, Ala., as her home. The December 5 baby's mother declared she was from Birmingham, Ala., while the December 10 infant's mother registered at the hospital as being from Dublin, Ga.

No Legal Adoption.

No record of legal adoption of any of the eleven babies taken in by Mrs. South exists. This is not in violation of any law. Chief Beavers explained that any person of good character can give shelter to these babies without formally adopting them. However, if the parents wish at any time to claim these children, they can do so and the foster parents can take no pre-ventative steps.

Dr. Kennedy is of the opinion that Mrs. South's story of her motives for sheltering these children and deceiving her husband is in all likelihood true. "I know that she has received financial assistance from St. Paul's church," he declared, "and the church contributed this aid after a careful investigation. Had she been operating a 'baby farm' for financial benefit, she would hardly be in need of such assistance."

"Her need, however, was so vital that I know that about Christmas time, Governor Dorsey called the attention of the Associated Charities to her case and in response to his plea and his recommendation of her as a worthy woman, the family received a supply of coal that was badly needed."

South, himself, is sure that his wife never received any financial aid from the parents of the children. "I've had to work nights hard to rear all these children," he said, "and sometimes we couldn't give them as much as we wanted to, but we always tried to do our best. I know that she was never paid for taking care of any of them. I'd have surely known it if she had."

The tropics have a great deal more rain than the temperate zone, yet only half as many wet days, while the Arctic regions rank among the driest parts of the earth.

U. D. C. Sponsors Successful Concert by Atlanta Quartet

An audience representative of Atlanta's musical and social life heard the Atlanta quartet last night at the Auditorium in a first concert, which was delightful from the artistic standpoint and was given enthusiastic appreciation.

Indeed, so pronounced was the success of the event, revealing as it did an exceptional standard of ensemble singing as well as solo work of the highest type, that the four singers, with Mrs. Charles Chalmers, revealed a group of beautiful character, and Mrs. Charles Chalmers, in the heavy work of accompaniment, revealed an excellent musicianship which is one of the substantial aspects of Atlanta's musical life.

The proceeds of the concert will go to the building fund of the Atlanta chapter, U. D. C. Culpeper as the possessor of a charming voice, her coloratura full-toned as well as flexible.

Mrs. J. H. Whitten's singing of Gretcheninoff's "Over the Steppes" had no apologies to the rendition it has been given this winter by some of the most noteworthy singers on the concert stage who have been heard here, and the operatic areas from "Trovatore" Faust and "Lucia," with excellent musical exposition of ensemble work. Mr. Drukenmiller and Mrs. Epps also presented solo groups of beautiful character, and Mrs. Charles Chalmers, in the heavy work of accompaniment, revealed an excellent musicianship which is one of the substantial aspects of Atlanta's musical life.

NEW AMENDMENTS TO TARIFF BILL

Wheat Tax Fixed at 40 Cents a Bushel—Only Nine Senators Voted on First Call.

Washington, February 4.—Senate got down to business with the Fordney emergency tariff bill today and before the session which convened a 11 o'clock ended, four amendments had been adopted. Votes on the amendments, where a record was made, showed supporters of the bill to have a majority from 10 to 13. As the situation stood tonight it appeared that the bill would be for the most part actually as well, as technically under consideration until a final vote is reached. Senator Penrose, republican, Pennsylvania, in charge of the bill, declared that it had good prospects of passage next week.

Under the program the early part of the sessions will probably be devoted to consideration of appropriation bills but later the tariff measure will be debated, as it was today, to the exclusion of all else.

The committee amendment to establish an import duty of 40 cents a bushel on wheat was twice adopted today. It was first taken up with only nine senators in the chamber and accepted without a dissenting vote. Then Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, one of the bitterest opponents of the measure, discovered what had happened and forced a call for a quorum. He said he was under the impression the senate still was considering a minor Indian bill.

Reconsideration Asked. After the quorum call and an hour of desultory debate, Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, asked for reconsideration of the wheat amendment and it again was agreed to, by a vote of 33 to 28.

The amendments, also from the committee, exempting from a tariff duty rice to be used in the manufacture of canned goods likewise was adopted.

The committee amendments fixing duties of 2 cents a pound on fresh and frozen meats, and of 25 cents ad valorem on prepared meats, and on the duty on live stock imported for breeding purposes also were approved.

Consideration of the duty on meats brought from Senator Underwood, of Alabama, democratic leader, an attack on the inequities of the proposed legislation. He assailed the republican senators who "absolutely forgotten that the government had no right to tax the people's property during the extra session.

The Fordney bill, Mr. Underwood asserted could be construed as none other than a tariff on the pockets of speculators and quoted figures from a summary of tariff in the Fordney bill, which would mean a 10 per cent increase on the value of the goods imported, to show that imports so far as the Fordney bill is concerned, would be "taxed only in air."

The program of the leaders to attempt the fixing of a date for a vote went into the discard, temporarily at least, with the arrival of Senator Williams, democrat, Mississippi, who renewed his declaration that he would not support the bill until private agreements, "machinations" and "going on around here," adding: "I would be a fool to agree to something I do not believe in, and I am not going to do that."

The house ways and means committee concluded hearings on the silk schedule in its consideration of the revision of the tariff. It plans tomorrow to hear discussion of tariff rates on paper and books.

Mrs. Porter King, Mrs. Lumpkin's splendid executive ability, her knowledge of Atlanta women, their earnestness and success, are among the attributes which peculiarly qualify her for leadership in this extensive work among Atlanta women, now citizens and voters.

Other Business.

Mrs. Thornton in an earnest plea for the exploitation of southern literature and southern accomplishments asked the federation members to observe two outstanding club dates of the month, the Georgia day, February 12, and Library day, February 22.

On Georgia day she suggested observance in schools and in club programs, including papers and memorials to Georgia's distinguished men of letters. Mrs. Porter King urged a closer study and knowledge of southern literature and mentioned the valuable collection of books compiled in the library of southern literature.

Mrs. John K. Otley, chairman of the Georgia club association, asked that library day be observed through gifts of books to the library commission, which in turn would see that the books were sent where they are most needed, mentioning especially rural institutions in Georgia, among them the Georgia Training School for Girls. Books should be sent to the commission, the place to send them to be the Georgia club association.

Madame C. Slifer, representing the French alliance, appealed for the collection of the library day, February 22, as the acceptance time.

Efforts of State in Baird Case to Prove Lancaster Bore Bad Reputation Fail Friday.

Hamilton, Ala., February 4.—Efforts of the state to prove that Sergeant Robert Lancaster, national guardsman, on trial in connection with the lynching of William Baird on January 13, bore a bad reputation, failed this afternoon when a score of witnesses, including a judge, police chief, overseas officer under whom the defendant served in the world war, and others, testified that the young soldier bore an excellent reputation, both at his home in Tuscaloosa and in France, where he fought the Germans.

Testimony was also given by Lieutenant L. B. McBride and Sergeant S. B. Thompson, company clerk, that all members of Company M were present or accounted for when checked up between 4:35 and 5 o'clock on the morning of January 13.

Various witnesses had testified that the "captain's car" figured prominently in all the witness examinations today. The prosecution maintains that the small car used by the lynch mob was the "captain's car." Lieutenant McBride declared on the stand today that no car had entered the camp after 4:30 a. m. on the morning of the lynching.

Sergeant Thompson said the "captain's car" was out of the camp when he made an inspection, that it was muddy, but that this was not unusual for the state of the roads. He saw Lancaster at mess and heard him talking, but declared that the defendant made no reference to "notches on his gun," or threats against those who "squealed." Sergeant Thompson also testified that he saw Lancaster asleep on his bunk between 4:30 and 5 o'clock on the morning of the lynching.

Cross-Examination.

On cross-examination Lieutenant L. B. McBride was asked by Special Prosecutor Wilkinson if he knew the defendant during the preliminary investigation.

McBride shot back quickly after the court had ruled on the point: "I did not shrink, but I don't doubt but other folks would have shrunk if they had heard about myself."

Corporal E. B. True, recalled, testified that Lancaster, another sergeant and himself had visited the Walker county jail three days before Baird was lynched. He said it was uncommon for soldiers to visit the jail on official business. He had taken persons under arrest to the prison, he said.

Ridicules Theory
Of Irish Sinking

London, February 4.—Inquiry by the admiralty into the loss of the British submarine K-5, which sank with all hands off Land's End a fortnight ago, has cleared up the mystery, which surrounded the cause of the sinking, as there were no survivors and the wreck was not seen.

Numbers of governments would like to have a sea fighting contrivance capable of the performance of the sinking of the Irish "hush plane," was the comment of one of the admiralty officials. He pointed out that the sinking had occurred more than 100 miles off the Scilly Islands.

Following the meeting of the committees the house agreed to convene at 11 a. m. next week instead of at noon. Night sessions are probably some members said.

Hog Island Yard
Ends Activities
And Closes Gates

Philadelphia, February 4.—Hog Island today ceased its ship-building activities, so far as the present management is concerned, and the key to the vast yard was formally turned over to the United States shipping board.

The yard, which employed more than 36,000 men at the height of its activity, will be looked after by about 500 men and women. Many of these will be employed in plant protection and in the operation of utilities, such as water supply, heat, light and sewerage. Others among them clerks, will be engaged in the selling of surplus material brought to Hog Island from Atlantic coast yards after contracts for ships had been cancelled following the signing of the armistice.

It is estimated the surplus material at the yard cost the government at war prices, $60,000,000. The yard itself with its many warehouses, workshops and other buildings cost $66,000,000, and when the key was turned over it represented a property value, at war prices, estimated at $140,000,000.

By Chinese law, the doctor, the priest and the fortune teller can not sue for their fees. All these debts, however, are looked on as "debts of honor," and payment is readily evaded.

Blood is fuel to the body. Pumped through the system by the heart it sustains the muscles and tissues.

PEPTO-MANGAN HELPS BLOOD

Keep the Quality of Your Blood at its Best—it Means Vigorous Health and Ability to Accomplish

Blood acts like a fuel. Pumped through the body by the heart, it sustains the muscles and tissues. It is why people look so pale and lifeless when the blood is impoverished. The body tissues are being supplied with weak fuel. The blood has not enough red corpuscles. You would not eat poor food with no nourishment in it, no more should you let the fuel that supplies sustenance to your entire body be inferior. Have good blood. Improve the quality and keep it at its best.

If you look pale and feel weak, if you have lost your enthusiasm and energy, if your blood is clogged with poisons, your system is being fed with a poor grade of blood. It is no way to go around. If you are not at your best, get at the source of the trouble right away. Put an end to half-living.

Take that ideal tonic, Pepto-Mangan, today and your blood will purify itself. Get the full enjoyment out of living. Breathe fresh air, take exercise.

Be sure to ask for "Gude's Pepto-Mangan." It comes in convenient tablet form and in liquid. One has the same medicinal value as the other. There is only one genuine "Gude's" on the package. (adv.)

the national tournament opens up here in Kansas City and you may have your bottom dollar that the Beauvais boys will be on hand when the time comes.

The second game this evening, however, was a real test of the boys' ability to provide the feature entertainment of the night. Though these boys are not the best local basketball team, they haven't lost a game yet with each other on the hardwood floor since way last February. They have won four out of five basketball games, including four other sports—in football, baseball, swimming and track, and one basketball game. They have won all of these through with the better margin of victory than the local boys.

Professional basketball, however, is a different matter. The boys' basketball court resulted, however, in a Tiger victory of rather more than 40 to 20. The boys' basketball team is about being something like 48 to 20 on the Clemson court.

There is a basketball game like that of one of his prep teams. Coach Miles again had charge of the whole team. The boys' basketball team is about being something like 48 to 20 on the Clemson court.

COMMERCIAL BODY MEETS IN MARCH

Southern Commercial Congress to Hold 12th Annual Convention in Washington.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.

Washington, February 4.—The twelfth annual convention of the Southern Commercial Congress has been called for Washington, March 1 to 3, inclusive. Active preparations are being completed for making it the climax of the series that have been held for more than a decade and to sum up from its platform, in a non-partisan way, the legislative program of the period of international reconstruction. Little legislation of a constructive nature has been passed since the armistice and it is undeniably true that America has lost many great opportunities in the realm of foreign commerce.

The general program will include a consideration of the internal economic needs of the United States, particularly of the south, and the relation of the southern states to the foreign program of the government, notably that of commercial relations.

On the second day of the convention the congress will present to

PORTO RICO WANTS STATUS SETTLED

Delegation Now in Washington to Present Case After Harding Inauguration.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN.

Washington, February 4.—Immediately after the inauguration of the republican administration Porto Rico will seek to have her status definitely settled. A delegation from Porto Rico is now in Washington making the preliminary survey for a campaign to that end. On the 12th of March a number of congressmen, including several from the south, will be in Washington to present the case of Porto Rico to the president.

Among Porto Ricans here is Robert H. Todd, republican national committee man. He made the following statement: "Although the Porto Rican act of 1917 was a great step toward complete self-government, and the act is working well, our people are not satisfied, and will never be satisfied until the status of Porto Rico is determined by congress. In accordance with the provisions of the treaty of 1900, congress reserved the right to determine the political status of Porto Rico. This uncertainty as to our future has kept the people in constant dissatisfaction, as we believe that we have a right to know what our future is going to be."

Porto Rico's external trade has grown from $17,000,000 in 1910 to $141,986,400 in 1919. In this latter year exports were $78,496,040 leaving a balance of trade in Porto Rico's favor of more than $17,000,000. In public improvements there has been great progress, also.

Allen is Released

ON KILLING CHARGE

DeLand, Fla., February 4.—George W. Allen, Daytona paper hanger, was released from custody here today on habeas corpus proceedings brought after Arthur Hames had declared Allen was not one of the men who took part in the beating of Hames and killing of Grady Hames.

Young Hames was killed at Daytona Beach the night of December 24, last, in trying to defend his father, Arthur Hames, from a crowd of men who had taken him out and were beating him. Allen had been identified by Miss Lena Hames, sister of the dead boy, as one of the crowd and had been bound over to the grand jury when the elder Hames returned here and on facing Allen asserted he was innocent.

Banker Arrested in Bond Mystery

Memphis, Tenn., February 4.—W. L. Huntley, Jr., banker, formerly of Memphis, and his wife, Mrs. Ethel Wyckoff Nolen, tonight faced charges of receiving stolen property as a result of today's police investigation of the alleged wholesale disposal here of stolen Liberty bonds while detectives and postoffice inspectors continued their efforts to identify the mysterious "Mr. Cameron" and "B. Anderson," names given by two men who are alleged to have reaped the profits from the sale here of more than a quarter million dollars of stolen bonds.

Beyond the statement that "other arrests are probable" W. T. Griffin, police inspector, who has personal charge of the investigation, declined to indicate what the next move would be.

Resigned From Bank.

Huntley, until he resigned yesterday, was vice president of a local bank, and, according to police records, at one time served a term in Leavenworth prison for misuse of the mails. According to records here he was arrested at Savannah, Ga., in November, 1912, and sentenced to go to Oklahoma, Neb., January 11, 1913.

Huntley is charged, specifically, with buying and receiving stolen property. All were released on bond.

In addition to the three persons against whom formal charges have been made, a New York man, who gave his vocation as an automobile driver, was being detained tonight for investigation.

More Bonds Traced.

Thus far approximately $300,000 of alleged stolen bonds have been traced through Memphis today's investigation bringing to light a block of $50,000 disposed of through a local brokerage firm in addition to $250,000 identified as part of the lot obtained when a broker's messenger was held up and robbed in Brooklyn last November.

Huntley, according to a statement made public by Mr. Griffin, admitted disposing of $50,000 of bonds as an agent for "Anderson," in the belief, he explained, that "Anderson" was the rightful owner of the bonds.

It was stated that detectives from the office of the district attorney in New York city would arrive tomorrow to aid in the investigation.

OFFICERS WATCH MAIL ROBBERY; ARREST THIEF

Dayton, Ohio, February 4.—Acting upon a tip that a robbery was to be staged, federal officials with deputy sheriffs stationed themselves in a store near the postoffice at Troy today, and watched Leo Bauman, 45, attack Leonard Dodge, the mail wagon driver, bind him to a post and place the two pouches in a waiting automobile.

Firing through a window of the store and rushing out the door, deputy sheriffs surprised and surrounded Bauman. One bullet struck the windshield of his car, but he escaped injury. Bauman was held under $25,000 bond.
